Introduction

Formation in Relational Maturity is a new and evolving part of the academic and formational programs at St. Peter's Seminary. F.i.R.M. includes a framework of eight (8) modules on various topics such as ministerial leadership, affective maturity, and working with women in ministry. All modules have identified detailed benchmarks for formation and provide faculty, formators, seminarians, and lay students with a rich offering of knowledge and skills to assist with the integration of their human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral growth.

F.i.R.M. is not a program nor simply a series of workshops but rather an assimilation of knowledge, values, and strategies for the purpose of bringing to life a number of subject areas critical to formation. While it does offer the opportunity for conferences, in-house workshops, and written resources, F.i.R.M. is a cultural lens through which to understand relational maturity, its importance for ministerial work, and has been designed as a living document to be continuously embedded into all aspects of formation.

This bibliography collects the resources cited throughout F.i.R.M. The resources are arranged by F.i.R.M. module. The links provided point, where possible, to the resource itself; where this is not possible, the links will direct you to the record for the resource in the Western Libraries catalogue. All links have been tested; if you experience difficulty in accessing the linked content, try manually copying the URL and pasting it in your web browser. Some resources are duplicated, but as they are relevant to multiple modules, they are included in each section.
